Touching Evil (Jewish Holocaust Studies) Norma Rosen

In Touching Evil, Norma Rosen has created a compelling novel that leads Christians and Jews alike to an examination of the nature of evil and its effects on the lives of people of good will. The narrative is comprised of a series of letters, diary entries, an autobiographical manuscript, and interior reflections. Protagonist Jean Lamb writes to her absent lover, describing her activities and those of her pregnant friend, Hattie, during the daily televising of the Eichmann trial. Hattie, acting both as Jean's foil and as her double, becomes a transmitter of Holocaust knowledge to the next generation. These non-Jewish, psychological survivors absorb the meaning of the Holocaust not in the context of Jewish history, but in their own lives as a cipher of the human condition.
