The RCMP Division Depot, in Regina, Saskatchewan is where new recruits go to receive their basic training. Go along with Corporal Teather as he takes you into this secret society and the basic training of thirty-two individuals and how they became Troop 18. This is the story of six young men from different parts of Canada and from different walks of life and how with the rest of the group, they learn to work together and become a proud troop. Read as these young recruits go through torturous instruction techniques and brain moulding. It is the basic training that puts the Canadian in RCMP and makes it a force capable of policing our diverse country.
