I Touch the Future Robert T. Hohler

The explosion of the space shuttle Challenger on January 28, 1986 touched the emotions of all Americans. One of the astronauts whose death seemed even more of a tragedy was McAuliffe, a popular social studies teacher from Concord, New Hampshire and the first private citizen selected for space flight. This is her story, told by a journalist from her home town. Hohler's text documents McAuliffe's saga from Concord to NASA training in Houston to the brink of death at Cape Canaveral. It is touching: happy and at the same time, sad, since we know the fate of the Challenger crew. Without excessive pathos, Hohler uses interviews and personal recollections to reconstruct the life of a teacher's teacher. The author grew close to McAuliffe and her family, and his reflections make for a unique narrative. Highly recommended for most libraries.
